Under the light of the moon...

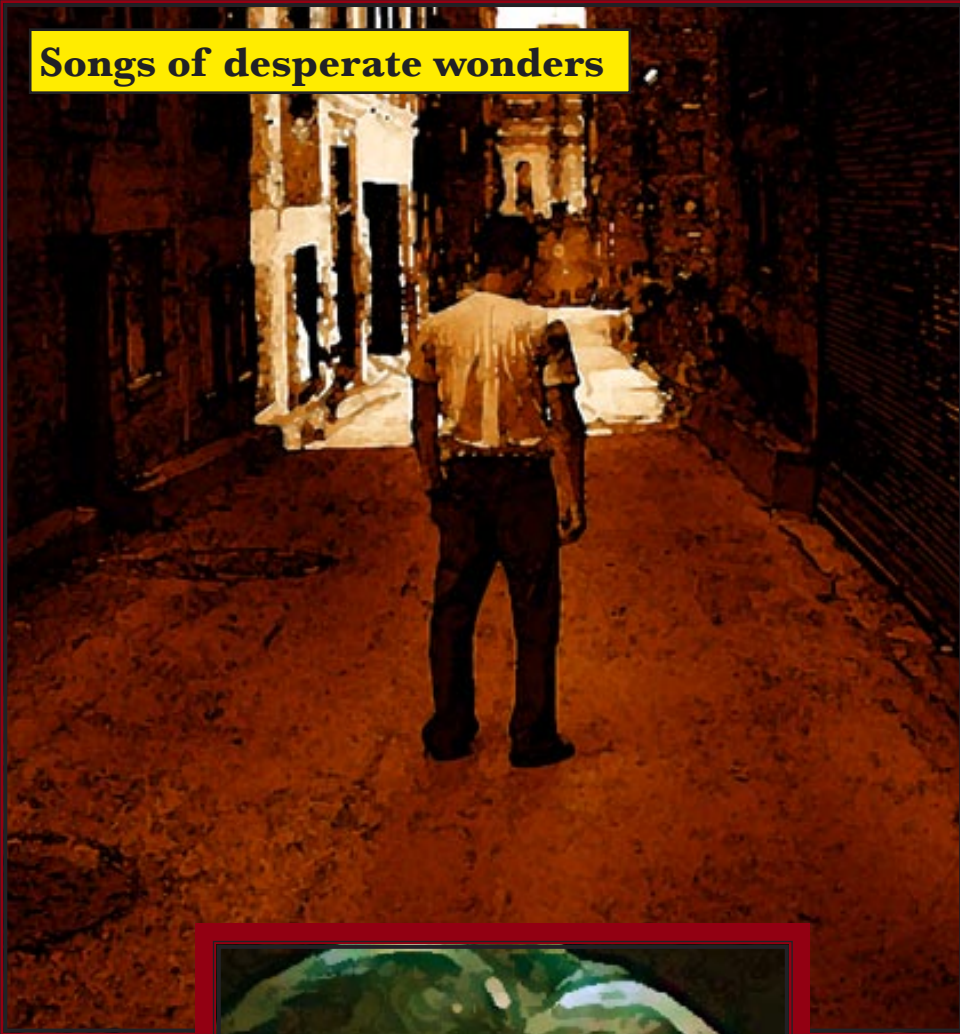

I felt the shadows on my face

The songs and the poems of solitude

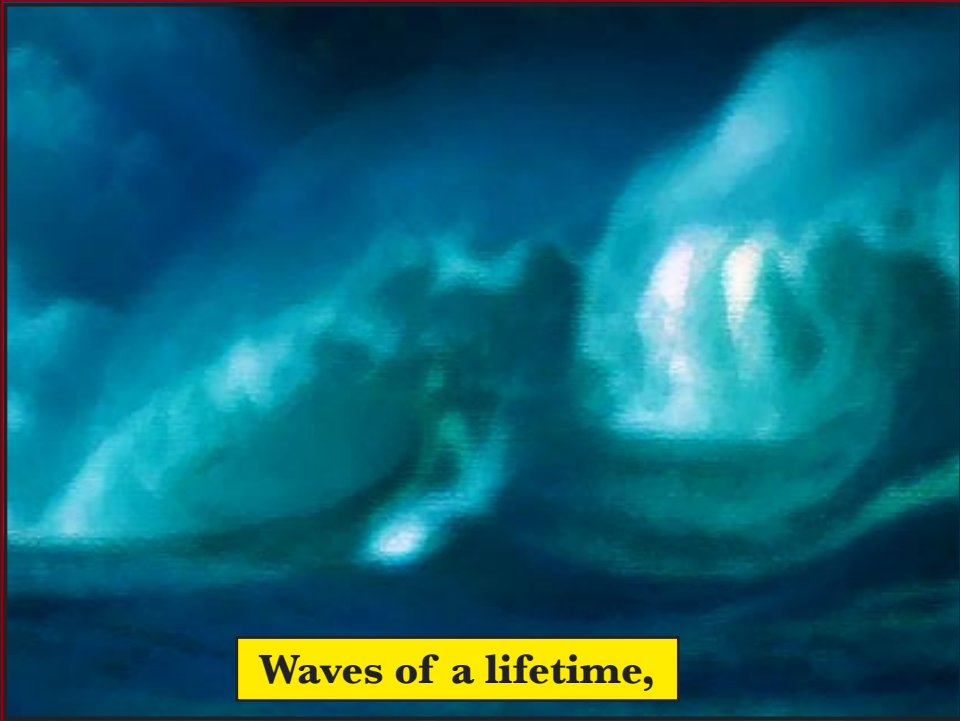

Songs of desperate wonders

Begging of forgotten music!

Waves of a lifetime,

Storms of the past

I kept the sight of my old house

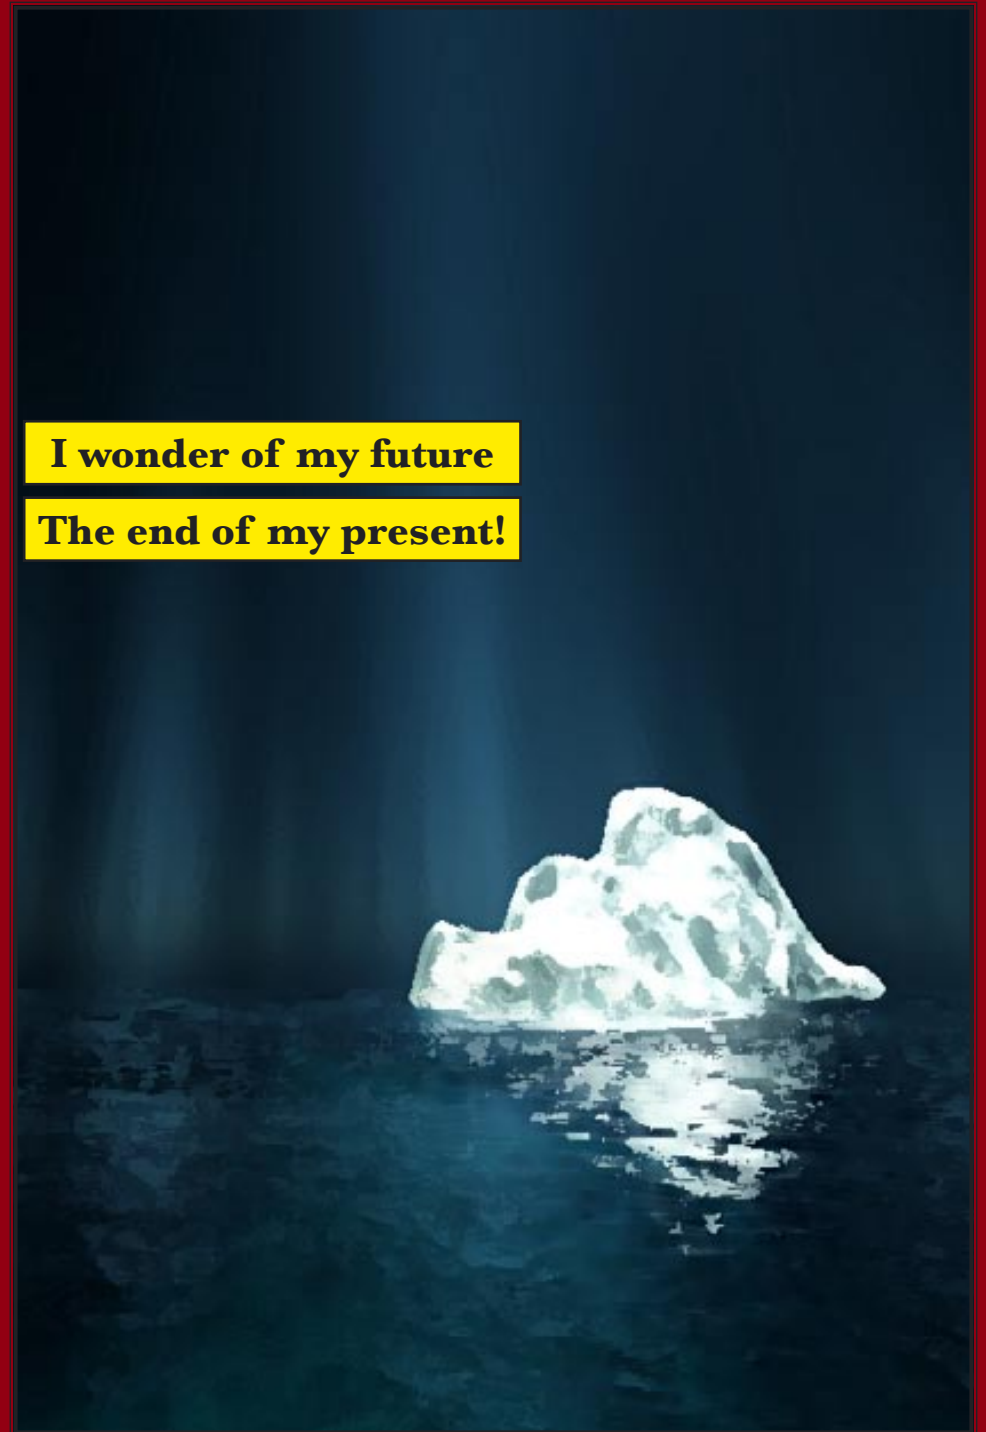

The smells of a flower in the garden!

Through the small streets,

The streams of my dreams

I wonder of my future

The end of my present!

Still, the most beautiful parts of me

Die every night under the light of the moon,

In a wonder of being there or not!

*The most beautiful parts of me
Are the ones dying every night,
Under the light of the moon.*

*I felt the shadows on my face
The songs and the poems of solitude
Songs of desperate wonders
Begging of forgotten music!*

*Waves of a lifetime,
Storms of the past
I kept the sight of my old house
The smells of a flower in the garden!*

*Through the small streets,
The streams of my dreams
I wonder of my future
The end of my present!*

*Still, the most beautiful parts of me
Die every night under the light of the moon,
In a wonder of being there or not!*

The most beautiful ...end!
